Call for Homerton Changemakers Student Ambassadors 2023/24

Each year a group of Homerton Changemakers Ambassadors are appointed as champions of Changemakers thinking and activities in College and beyond.

Becoming a Changemakers Ambassador is a chance to join a thoroughly energetic and engaged group of people serious about making a difference. Recent ambassadors include successful entrepreneurs & founders; podcasters, authors & broadcasters; and creators of award-winning social innovations.

We meet termly (usually over a simple dinner at college but sometimes online) & the role is initially for one academic year, extendable up to three.

As an Ambassador you'll have opportunities to:

- advise the Changemakers leadership team on the programme’s structure and focus
- lead your own Changemakers events and initiatives if you wish
- champion Changemakers informally at college and in your own academic and professional contexts
- build experience through accessing bespoke training through partner groups (such as the Tavistock Institute and the Eden Project; contributing to schemes with partner organisations (such as Form the Future and local charities)
- have first access to all of the Changemakers programme, including mentoring programmes and sponsored places at external events; informal support for initiatives you’re leading; and occasional opportunities for internships
- attend Changemakers Steering Group meetings & be part of other advisory groups
- and, of course, expand your network across disciplines, sectors and interests

Each year 8-12 ambassadors are appointed, working with Dr Alison Wood (Academic Director), Dr Soraya Jones (Director of Engagement) and Jane Mumford (Changemaker Programme Coordinator)

If you are interested in being an Ambassador this coming year please write to us at changemakers@homerton.cam.ac.uk before 9 October 2023 outlining in a paragraph or two why you want to join the team, and what you’d bring to the role.

The first meeting of the 2023/24 Ambassadors will be on 16 October, 4-5pm.

NOTE: The call is open to all current Homerton students and recent graduates (<5yrs). The only criteria are an interest in changemaking, and that you’ve participated in at least 6 hours of Homerton Changemakers events 2021-2023.
